LeMay, McCone Back Test-Ban Pact; Bonn Will Sign

AIR CHIEF, CIA HEAD EMPHASIZE NEED FOR CONTINUING A-PROGRAM

Fulbright Predicts Approval By Senate; West German Cabinet Unanimously But Reluctantly Supports Limited Treaty

London, Saturday, Aug. 17 (Reuters) — The right-wing Daily Express today saw a gradual advance along the road to a solution of world crises. "The road to a peaceful settlement of world problems is long and difficult," the Express said. "But, in today's mood of compromise and optimism, it is being traveled — step by step," the editorial concluded.

Washington, Aug. 16 — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force Chief of Staff, and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, gave their support today to the partial test ban treaty.

Their endorsements, which emphasized the need for a continuing nuclear program, came as Senator Fulbright (D., Ark.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, predicted that the pact will be ratified by more than four fifths of the Senate.

Majority Requirement

Only a two-thirds majority is required for Senate approval of the American-Soviet treaty of agreement to limit nuclear tests in the atmosphere.
